

Devon Irete
Post Producer, Carbon VFX

Devon Irete is a commercial producer, whose career has spanned from East to West coast working alongside directors, editors, and creatives on commercials for top brands and organizations. After graduating from NYU with a BS in Media, she has focused on various sectors of the commercial production pipeline, from live action, stop motion, and live streams, to her current position at Carbon VFX producing visual effects and CG-based projects for the small screen of television to the even smaller screens of Virtual Reality.